

HOPES FOR PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT GET A SEVERE SETBACK

Hitler Rejects Compromise Truce Offer Advanced By President Benes

TAKES A SERIOUS TURN

Resumption of Negotiations Now Depend Entirely On Hitler

By George Langwell

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

PRAGUE, Sept. 2.—(INS)—Hopes for peaceful settlement of the Sudeten autonomy crisis received a severe setback today as a result of Chancellor Hitler's rejection of the compromise truce offer advanced by Czechoslovak President Eduard Benes.

The consensus in official circles here was that the situation—upon which the future of this country and possibly the peace of Europe depend—has taken a serious and unfavorable turn.

Prague officials gloomily admitted that the "center of gravity" in the peace negotiations has now shifted from Prague to Hitler's retreat at Berchtesgaden, where the Fuehrer and Sudeten leader Konrad Henlein conferred yesterday and where Hitler rejected the Czech peace proposals.

In the view of authorities here, resumption of the negotiations between the Czech government and the Sudetens now depends entirely on Hitler. They took this attitude despite reports that Hitler purposely left the path clear for further talks.

Adding to the general apprehension was a fresh cause of friction between the Sudetens and the Czechs within the borders of Czechoslovakia.

Government authorities again confiscated copies of the official Sudeten news organ, Die Zeit. Sudeten circles were greatly irritated by this development, and fears were expressed that it might lead to increased tension which would hamper further moves to settle the crisis.

The new, ominous trend became evident less than half a day after the Prague government had optimistically issued an official statement which said:

"The situation is more hopeful. Political tranquility is continuing. The road toward a peaceful solution of the Sudeten problem has been opened."

But this burst of cheerfulness on the part of the government was short-lived. Overnight advices from Berchtesgaden caused the government to change its tune, and no more cheerful statements were issued this morning.

Meanwhile, the government here awaited the formal Sudeten reply to the proposals offered by President Benes. It was understood the answer would be delivered to Benes today, probably through the British mediator, Viscount Runciman.

Whether the Prague truce plan will now be published remained in doubt. Benes was understood eager to publish the plan today, rejection or no rejection, while Lord Runciman was advocating delay and caution in order to avoid further irritation to the Sudetens.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—(INS)—Turning down peace proposals offered by the Czech Government, but keeping the door open for further negotiations, Chancellor Adolf Hitler prepared today for a new round of conferences which may decide the immediate fate of Czechoslovakia—and perhaps of all Europe.

In his meeting with Kodrat Henlein at the Fuehrer's Berchtesgaden Mountain retreat, Hitler was reliably reported to have rejected Prague's compromise scheme on the ground that it failed by a wide margin to meet the autonomy demands of Czechoslovakia's 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans.

But, instead of breaking off negotiations, Hitler was believed to have outlined counter-proposals for transmission to Prague either through Henlein, leader of the Sudeten party, or Viscount Runciman, Britain's unofficial mediator in Czechoslovakia.

It was believed that Hitler will confer with German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, and perhaps also again with Henlein, in the seclusion of his mountain home today.

Prisoners Go On Strike

Pittsburgh, Sept. 2.—Half of the 700 prisoners in the Allegheny County Jail, here, went on a hunger strike today, precipitated by the charge of one of their number that soup served them was made from wormy peas.

Chief Deputy Warden Daniel Williams admitted that a strike was in progress, but refused to comment on the charge. He said no punishment was planned for the recalcitrants, and blamed the strike on publicity attending the recent roasting to death of four convicts at Holmesburg Prison in Philadelphia.

Denies Heat-Torture Standing Rule

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.—Deputy Warden Frank Craven today emphatically denied that heat-torture was a standing rule at Holmesburg County Prison for unruly convicts placed in "Klon-dike," the tomb-like chamber in which four men were "roasted alive" on August 22nd. The officer was recalled to the stand as the third day of the coroner's inquest opened, to answer two questions propounded by the blue-ribbon jury of four men and two women.

During the questioning by Chief Deputy Coroner Vincent Moranz, Craven vigorously denied the accusation of Sergeant James Hart, who testified the deputy warden had told him in 1937 that the heat treatment was a standard part of the punishment to be given convicts placed in the isolation cells.

Reject Truce Plan

Berlin, Sept. 2.—Flatly rejecting the Czechoslovakia plan for a three-month truce in the Sudeten controversy, Reichsfuehrer Hitler conferred at length again today with Konrad Henlein, and outlined terms under which Nazi Germany will accept peaceful settlement of the crisis. The negotiations, according to informed German quarters, are still in an early stage, and the conversations begun at the Fuehrer's Bavarian mountain retreat are certain to be lengthy ones, it is said.

Official German quarters made every effort to minimize importance of the conference in an effort to prevent further uneasiness at home and abroad. It was obvious, however, that they were destined to play an important role in the future peace of Europe.

NAME NEW TEACHER FOR THE SCHOOL AT EMILIE

Miss Mary Glenda Connor, Benton, to Teach Grades One to Five

SCHOOLS IN READINESS

One new teacher was named at the meeting of Bristol Township school board last evening. The new teacher is Miss Mary Glenda Connor, of Benton, who will teach grades one to five in Emilie school.

The session was conducted by president, William Smyrl, and all members were in attendance.

Considerable discussion occurred relative to needs of a high school in the district.

Report was made by supervising principal, William J. Kines, that all schools in the district have been placed in condition for opening on September 7th, with the exception of the remodeling work at Laurel Bend School. At that building progress is being made on installation of new toilets, and it is expected this work will be completed within one week after opening of school.

It was stated by the supervising principal that enrollment for the term will approximate 950, and it is believed that many who are to enter first grade have not yet enrolled. There will be 256 students to attend high schools from this district, this term, it is announced.

The school grounds have also been conditioned for the term, this work being done by the supervisors of the township.

Rotarians and Wives Enjoy Outdoor Feast

The lawn of Dr. and Mrs. H. Fleckenstein, Newportville, was the scene of the weekly meeting of the Bristol Rotary Club yesterday afternoon when the local members and the Rotary-Annes enjoyed a doggie roast.

Good food in quantities was the chief topic of the session with hot dogs, hamburgers, watermelon and sugar corn on the cob much preferred. Two members became new champions in their respective fields of endeavor when Lester D. Thorne became the sugar corn eating champ, and "Hamp" Morris the new watermelon champ.

Ex-Wife Asks Langhorne Man To Pay Her $12,135

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Irene Dolores Knight has filed suit in U. S. District Court, here, to compel her divorced husband, Robert, to pay her a $12,135 arrearage in a support order issued against him 15 years ago in California.

Knight, who lives at 235 Maple avenue, Langhorne, was ordered by the California Superior Court in 1923 to pay his wife $75 a month for the support of their three children, together with $75 counsel fees and $25 costs of Mrs. Knight's divorce action. He never did, she said.

Liberate 1,000 Black Bass In Canal Near Bristol

One thousand large mouth black bass, measuring in length between 5 and 7 inches were liberated in the canal between Morrisville and Bristol yesterday afternoon by John C. Johnson, secretary of the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association and "Cy" Regan, representative of the State fish hatchery at Pleasant Mount, Stroudsburg.

This stocking will make the canal a still better spot for local fishermen. Many of the bass liberated yesterday will be of legal length by next season. The fish, which were spawned out in June will find an abundance of natural foods in the canal and it is an ideal spot for them.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Anti-Semitism Here?

AT THIS time there is current a good deal of loose talk about "anti-Semitism" in this country. Much of it comes from people recently returned from Europe, where the Jews are being persecuted in Germany and Italy. In Poland three million of them live in constant fear. In Rumania, in Hungary and other places they are harassed and bedeviled.

KNOWLEDGE of these things without a real understanding of causes and conditions has incited the belief among those who do not stop to think that hostility to the Jews is general; that underneath it exists in America just as it does in Europe; that it is only a matter of time before there will be open demonstration of this feeling here. As a result, considerable apprehension has arisen. Steadfast facts are ignored and a good many timid souls are disturbed. In view of the widespread nature of recent whisperings along these lines and in the interest of preserving a sense of proportion, it seems worth while to recite some of these facts.

PERHAPS the most convincing is the situation in the State of New York, which those who talk about anti-Semitism here appear not to know or at least not to consider. The Governor of New York, Mr. Herbert Lehman, not only happens to be a Jew but is a Jew who has been elected three times as head of the greatest State in the Union, each time by an increased majority; a Jew whose strength with the people is such that in 1936, when he earnestly wanted to return to private life, he was personally appealed to by the President of the United States to run again in order to help him in his own State.

NOW, at the close of his third term, no one questions that if he desired to succeed himself he would be renominated and re-elected without serious opposition. Instead, he has chosen to be a candidate for the Senate. Such is his position that even the politicians, who do not love him, practically concede that he will win. There is no other reason save general recognition that he is an honest, competent, courageous, public-spirited man. Governor Lehman's case alone ought to be a sufficient answer to the anti-Semitic apprehensions here, but there is another almost equally convincing. In a State almost as great as New York—to wit, Illinois—the Governor, Mr. Herbert Horner, is also a Jew, and a Jew who, recently re-elected, has been re-elected.

Overpass Eliminates Highway Death-Trap

With the opening yesterday of an overpass replacing the Fallsington underpass on U. S. Route 1 below Morrisville another highway death-trap was eliminated.

The new structure carries the highway over the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad at a point about 1800 feet east of the Fallsington underpass. The roadway is 44 feet wide with a five-foot sidewalk. Cost of the project, financed largely by Federal funds, was approximately $276,000. U. S. Route 1 is now four lanes in width from its junction with Roosevelt Blvd. to the Morrisville borough limits.

TWO HURT IN CRASHES IN BRISTOL SECTION

Harry Gravenstine, Croydon, Struck by Truck; Motorcyclist Injured

BOY, FRACTURED LEG

In two separate accidents, two persons were injured yesterday afternoon in the vicinity of Bristol. The one, a boy, is a resident of Croydon, and the man who was injured resides in Nazareth, Northampton County.

Those injured: Harry Gravenstine, Rosa avenue, Croydon, fracture of the right leg, incised wound and contusions of back of head.

Gravenstine remains in Harriman Hospital, and Ferrette was discharged from that institution after treatment.

The Gravenstine child was injured at 4:30 o'clock when it is stated he ran across State Road in the path of a truck operated by William H. Keller, 451 Lafayette street. He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance of Bucks County Rescue Squad. With the Gravenstine boy at the time were Robert Clark, 11, and Clair Fries, 12, both of Croydon. The boys were said to be walking along the thoroughfare when the one suddenly darted across the highway.

Ferrette was operating a motorcycle when at two o'clock he crashed at the intersection of Route 13 and the road that leads to Burlington-Bristol bridge. The automobile involved was operated by Mrs. Caroline Reinauer, Bristol R. D.

It is stated by the investigating officer that Ferrette failed to stop at a "stop" sign as he reached Bristol Pike, en route from the bridge. The motorcycle is said to have crashed into the side of the Reinauer car.

Ferrette was treated at Harriman Hospital and then left for his home.

The two accidents were investigated by Private Nighan, of Oxford Valley barracks, Pennsylvania Motor Police.

BOROUGH WORKMEN TO DEMOLISH THE OLD TOWN HOUSE

Council Rescinds Ordinance Adopted July 11th Providing For Work Under Contract

VOTE WAS UNANIMOUS

Work Now to Be Done Under Supervision of Borough Engineer

Borough Council last night voted to have the Old Town House demolished by borough employees and rescinded an ordinance enacted July 11th authorizing advertising for bids and awarding of the contract for razing the old building, long a source of controversy.

Council met in special session at the call of the president. The only business to come before the meeting was that of repealing an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Directing the Demolition of the Building of the Borough of Bristol known as the 'Old Town House,' Located at the Intersection of Market and Radcliffe Streets, Advertising of Bids Therefor, Authorizing the Awarding of a Contract and Payment of Contract Price," adopted July 11th, and Authorizing the Removal and Demolition of the Old Town House of the Borough of Bristol by the Borough.

The meeting was called to order by William J. Lefferts, secretary of Council, who stated that he had been advised that Dr. J. Fred Wagner, president, would be unable to attend the meeting. He asked for nominations for a president pro tem. Richard Myers was selected, and presided over the session.

The ordinance which repealed the one adopted July 11th, providing for the advertising for bids and the awarding of the contract to demolish the Old Town House, and which also authorized by borough employees, under the supervision of the borough engineer, was presented. The ordinance was read by Secretary Lefferts and upon motion the rules of council were suspended and the ordinance taken up for second reading and final passage. It was unanimously adopted.

In compliance with the ordinance adopted July 11th, bids were received on August 25th. There was some misunderstanding concerning the bids and specifications and upon mutual agreement the three bidders agreed to withdraw their bids. This was done and the bids were returned unopened.

Business Men Meet And Discuss Affairs

Members of the Mill Street Business Men's Association of Bristol met last evening in regular monthly session at Ye Olde Delaware House. President Spencer was in charge of the meeting. Plans for the Fall and Winter seasons were discussed by the members. Committee reports and other routine business filled the balance of the session.

Reports from the "Dave Landreth Field Day" committee indicated that the day was a great success. This report was made by David Norman, chairman. A final report on the first annual outing held on Burlington Island by members of the Association was given by Frank Fitch. He stated that the 30 persons who attended had an enjoyable afternoon.

The treasurer's report showed a favorable balance

SERIOUS HANDICAP

The loss to the New York Giants of the services of Carl Hubbell is a serious blow to pennant hopes at this crucial stage of the hot race, with four teams closely touched for top place. Only eight or nine games is the difference between the standing of Pittsburgh in first place and Chicago in fourth, with New York and Cincinnati respectively in the middle, a spread comparatively slight and easily overcome before the end of the season, as shown by the records of other years.

Impassioned baseball wisecrackers recognize that the Pirates' team is exceptionally strong and well balanced and fired by the spirit that wins, and that the Giants might not have been able to catch up with them even with Hubbell's aid. But that will have to remain as the unsolved factor of the season and a point of argument for baseball disputants of the future. If, on the other hand, New York hits a winning stride without Hubbell and gets up in front by closing day, it will go down in history as the miracle team of 1938.

The operation on Hubbell's pitching arm, furthermore, is a handicap to more than the fortunes of his own team and teammates. Hub has written his name indelibly on the scroll which preserves for the future the names of Christy Mathewson, Ty Cobb, Honus Wagner, Babe Ruth, Tinker to Evers to Chance. It is hoped by all fans and by all his colleagues and opponents that present fears may be unfounded and that Hub may be back on the mound before the close of the season.

GOLD!

Down from the Great Slave Valley country of Canada, hard against the Arctic Circle, comes word of a new bonanza with features that stagger the imagination. They say the lake bottoms are plated with gold—that it was the rare precious metal shimmering beneath the surface of the water that first attracted aviators to the scene.

No movie queen, however affluent, has laved her limbs in a bath as costly. It is doubtful if the WPA, even, has considered gold as a building material for its pools. At present, of course, the Great Slave region is without streets, but it is presumed that these will be paved with the same stuff, and if and when a rail connection goes through that the gravel train will leave every hour on the hour. In the age of the New Abundance, it is silly to waste our dreams on anything less than an Eldorado complete in every detail.

As far as can be seen, only one objection might be lodged against the new wonderland. It is located in a far country, bitter cold through much of the year, and difficult even for planes. The transport facilities so far do not include a magic carpet. We shall probably hold off jumping the rush until one is provided.

The Great Game of Politics

elected for another four-year term by a larger majority, is generally acclaimed the best and most popular Governor the State has had since Frank Lowden. In the Democratic primaries last April Governor Horner beat the formidable Kelly-Nash machine supported by the Federal Administration and lavishly equipped with Federal patronage. Today he is one of the outstanding citizens of the State, with the largest personal following.

THE extraordinary political success of these two Jewish Governors in a country where the suffrage is free and unrestricted would seem enough to convince almost anyone of the absence in the United States of the kind of anti-Semitism that exists abroad, but there is more. Until recently, when one of them died, two of the nine members of the Supreme Court of the United States were Jews. Although this was far out of proportion to the Jewish population, Justice Brandeis and Justice Cardozo were two of the most revered of the nine members and there was scarcely a trace of feeling toward them on racial or religious grounds. It occurred to few to resent their presence on the highest court in the land because they were Jews. Nor will it occur to anyone to resent it if the President now appoints another Jew to succeed Justice Cardozo, provided, of course, the man he picks is otherwise equipped—such a man, for example, as Mr. Felix Frankfurter, whose name is prominently mentioned.

CERTAINLY there would be no such widespread and articulate popular resentment as when Mr. Roosevelt named a member of the Ku Klux Klan, the unsavory order which proclaims its hatred of Catholics, Jews and Negroes. And the selection of even an unworthy Jew would hardly create deeper feeling than was engendered by the Presidential effort to pack the court with subservient men willing to accept his will for the law of the land. In the light of these facts, it does seem a little difficult to sustain the theory that there is in his country a strong and barely suppressed anti-Semitic sentiment. It not only seems difficult to cherish that view—it seems absurd.

SYNOPSIS

Edward Fowler, a reputedly wealthy gambler, searches Durlin Bessinger's suite at the Hotel Pescador, Miami Beach, for evidence to substantiate the latter's claim that he is a wholesale grain merchant. In a trunk, Fowler finds letters to that effect, but though mailed from different points all appear to have been typed on the same machine, leading Fowler to believe that Bessinger had written them himself. Why had Bessinger gone to such lengths to establish himself in the grain market? What was he covering up? In the desk drawer Fowler finds a mysterious verse in German which in English read: "One more than a ten, but less than a Jack. Show your hand to get the pack." Several days later, at the Sunset Bridge Club, Glen Neal, a society reporter, questions Toby Munroe, the proprietor about Mr. and Mrs. Bessinger. Toby refers him to their "friend," Fowler. At the time, Fowler is playing bridge with Millie La France, a sophisticated blond. All of a sudden she starts shouting at him.

CHAPTER III

"He deliberately threw me!" Millie screamed at the approaching Toby. "It's the second time he's done it tonight and I won't stand for it. Down four tricks on a little slam bid—and we're vulnerable, too. I don't like that sort of bridge—and I don't intend to stand for it!"

Fowler rose to his feet. Standing, his unusual stature was marked. He towered over the two men and the girl, still seated. His face was darkly flushed. A small vein jutted out strongly on one temple, and beat visibly with an irregular pulsation.

"You'll have to excuse me, I'm afraid," he said softly to Toby. "I have another engagement. I'll be glad to settle any losses this lady has sustained tonight due to my execrable playing."

He turned back to the table, gave a slight formal bow from the waist to the trio he was leaving, and walked from the room into the hall. Glen Neal rose and followed him, evidently to secure more information about the imposing Bessingers.

Toby Munroe took the chair just vacated by Fowler, and idly rifled the cards. "I'll fill in if you want to play some more," he told the slightly mollified Millie.

She glanced at a jeweled wrist-watch, and flashed a smile toward the cold eyes of Ben Eckhardt seated at her right. Everything about Millie was flashing except her voice. The smile had little effect upon Eckhardt, who had a reputation for flintiness when playing with cards or women.

"It's just after eleven. I'd like another rubber."

"I'll play," said Eckhardt. "Let's cut, Toby."

Dave Button, the man on Millie's left was absent watching the door to the hall with deeper eyes which made dark pools in his wrinkled saffron face. He liked bridge for high stakes, as high as he could get. He was a flawless player, too flawless to suit many people. He watched Glen Neal return to the room and resume his seat opposite Eve Farraday. Then he said to Toby: "Ed Fowler is trying to catch your eye, Toby. I think he wants to speak to you."

Dave Button cut a King of Spades and won the deal with Eckhardt as his partner. Toby went to the door where Fowler was waiting, stepped into the hall and closed the door behind him. He was back shortly, followed by Juan the club attendant and steward. Juan renewed ice water in the glasses, emptied the full ashtrays, and silently departed for the kitchen.

"Fowler settled his account in full," Toby remarked as he picked up his hand.

"And mine?" Millie looked over her cards.

"And yours," Toby's inflection was far from friendly. "He said he was leaving town."

"One spade," Dave Button bid, and without changing his tone said: "When?"

day. Luminous hands marked ten minutes past four.

At quarter past four a figure detached itself from the security of the scattered orange trees in back of the house and noiselessly ascended the steps onto the back porch. A pencil flashlight revealed the lock of the back door. An instant later the door was opened and closed. The late caller had disappeared inside.

The pencil flash swept quickly around the downstairs cardroom, then lighted the way upstairs. If investigated the high stakes room, the kitchen, and the regular bridge

"Dollars to horse-collars they've bumped off the wrong guy," said the bearer of the flashlight.

"Tomorrow," said Toby. "I'll double a spade."

From below the windows the sound of a departing automobile came clearly into the room.

Eckhardt folded his cards into a neat pile and laid them face down on the green velvet cloth. "Pass!" He was listening to the sound of the departing car, noting the clatter of loose gravel against the fender. The gravel was very loose on Satsuma Road which led from the club to West Flagler Street.

"I don't think he'll leave without seeing you, Dave. Have you bid, Millie?"

"Two hearts," Millie re-sorted her hand.

"I don't think he will," said Dave Button. "He owes me sixty grand."

The Sunset Bridge Club had been dark for two hours. The last player had left before two o'clock. Just after two, Juan Andres, the steward, had locked the front door and gone home. He would return at ten the next morning to clean the club rooms for the afternoon players. The two story house was utterly devoid of life, but not of sound.

Recurrently, from the kitchen, came the click and whirr of an electric icebox as it turned off and on. In the downstairs hall an electric clock purred with a softness which was indistinguishable during the

ON SCREENS IN BRISTOL

BRISTOL

The romance of two young people in a great city, whose dreams of marriage are rudely shattered when they are caught up in the grim intrigues of a crime ring, forms the basis of RKO Radio's new drama, "Law of the Underworld."

With Chester Morris as a gangster chief who concealed his criminal activities under the guise of a polo-playing socialite, and Anne Shirley and Richard Bond as the young couple, the film is said to be one of the season's strongest offerings.

READY TO OPEN BOWLING SEASON HERE NEXT WEEK

Final Plans Have Been Completed By the Bristol Bowling Ass'n

ORGANIZE 5 LEAGUES

Thirty Teams Are Scheduled To Start the Season On Monday

Final arrangements and necessary business were completed at the meeting of the Bristol Bowling Association this week in the Recreation Center in preparation for the opening of the local association's 1938-39 season. The Association this year will consist of five leagues of six teams each, or a total of 30 teams in the entire association. Eddie McDewitt, Secretary of the Association, has the complete list of teams, captains and players of each outfit in every league, and the schedule has been drawn up for the ensuing year.

This year the Association has appointed a secretary of each individual league and he is responsible for all transactions of his respective league. The secretary of each circuit and the teams comprising it are as follows:

BRISTOL LEAGUE
Eddie McDewitt, Secretary
Rohm & Haas

Consolidated No. 2
Faculty
Langhorne

The Federal League was introduced last year while the new circuit to make its bow into the association this season is the Industrial League.

According to the schedule posted for games next week, the Federal League is given the honor of tossing the first balls down the runways for the 1938-39 season when they take off on Monday night, September 5. However, since this is Labor Day, which fact the schedule makers apparently overlooked, all games scheduled for that day are considered as postponed unless arrangements by some teams can be made with the management to go through with their schedule for that night. Otherwise the postponed games must be played off within two weeks following the postponement according to the new league rules.

All the teams of only one league will play each night over three alleys, Monday through Friday, of every week.

The entire schedule for next week follows:

Monday, Sept. 5—Federal League Grundys—Badenhausen No. 1 Crosley Cafe—Badenhausen No. 2 Jockey—A. O. H.
Tuesday, Sept. 6—American League Asco—Rohm & Haas
A. C. H.—All Stars

CASTONQUAY TO RACE AT LANGHORNE TRACK

Woodsie Castonquay is going to have something to say about who's going to take the title in the 100-mile national motorcycle championship race at Langhorne Labor Day.

This veteran of the speedways from coast to coast, who has ridden them all and has hardly ever finished out of the money, is a terrific threat to Lester Hillbush, Ed Kretz and Ted Edwards and the rest who have been getting most of the consideration in the picking of favorites.

Castonquay was national 100-mile champion in 1935, won it at Langhorne. The next two years he has been up there—but not quite up enough to beat Hillbush and Kretz last year.

However, he's hot now. Just stepped off a keen performance in Atlantic where he took Georgia State 25-mile crown. And what's more he trimmed Hillbush and Edwards to do it.

A couple of days later he was in Sturbridge, Mass., competing in a speed program at the Fair Grounds. His log at the end of the day showed a victory in the 10-mile feature in addition to wins in the two-mile and five-mile sprints.

Now Castonquay feels he is ready to regain his crown at Langhorne. He'll be among the 150 riders seeking the 30 qualifying places when time trials start Saturday. He's a virtual clinch to get into the starting line-up for few can turn a single loop like the track-tested vet from New England.

"RECS" TO PRACTICE

The Bristol "Recs" football club will hold practice on Leedom's field on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Any one wishing to try for a position on this year's team is requested to report for practice.

SWIMMING MEET AT DOYLESTOWN TO BE HELD ON SATURDAY

12th Annual Junior and Mid-gest Championships to Be Decided

AT THE CHAPMAN POOL

Entrants Are Practicing Daily and Events Are Likely to Be Hotly Contested

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 2.—Plans are completed for the twelfth annual junior and mid-gest swimming championships to be staged by the Fanny Chapman Memorial Swimming Pool, Saturday afternoon.

Everything is set for the annual meet and competitors are practicing daily in order to give the defending champions plenty of trouble. More than one upset is expected in Saturday's meet.

Sponsors of the meet are very anxious that all parents turn out, as well as other people interested in the meet. The admission charge has been cut in half this year to non-members of the pool. It is not likely that any other community in Pennsylvania the size of Doylestown, has so many competent mid-gest and junior swimmers, and for that reason the instructors, William E. Wolfe and Sonny Eastburn have extended an invitation to the public at large to attend.

All children taking part in the year's meet are members of the pool, a requirement. There will be four classes arranged according to ages. All contestants must register at the pool office before Friday, Sept. 2, to be eligible for this year's meet.

Defending champions include Miss Elizabeth Eastburn, mid-gest girl champs in 1935, 1936 and 1937; Bob Steelman, mid-gest boy champion in 1937; John Eastburn, junior boy champion; and two junior girl champions, Sonja Slotter and Jane Keller, who tied last season.

The prize awards this year include a silver loving cup for first-place winner, a bathing suit or 1939 pool ticket for second-place winner; and a pool ticket for 1939 for third-place winner.

The boy and girl receiving the highest number of points in their class for all events, will be declared the all-around aquatic champion of their respective class.

The point system of determining the champions will be used this year as follows: First place, 5 points; second, 4 points; third, 3 points; fourth, 2 points; fifth, 1 point.

Classifications of ages is as follows: Mid-gest girls, between ages of 7 and 12 inclusive; mid-gest boys, between 7 and 12 inclusive; junior girls, between ages of 13 and 15 inclusive; junior boys, between ages of 13 and 15 inclusive.

The list of events in each class is as follows:

Mid-gest girls and boys: 50-yard free style, 50-yard breast stroke, 50-yard back stroke, 100-yard free style, 3 compulsory dives (jackknife, swan and back dives); 2 optional dives.

Junior girls and boys: 50-yard free style, 75-yard breast stroke, 75-yard back stroke, 100-yard free style, 3 compulsory dives (jackknife, swan and back dives); 2 optional dives.

EDGELY AND CROYDON PLAY TIE GAME, 3-3

Edgely A. C. and Croydon Y. M. A. played a tie game at Croydon with the score ending 3 to 3 when the game was called in the eighth inning due to darkness.

Ted Devoe, Croydon, was stingy with his hits but Lincke proved very effective with men on the bases. Croydon had 10 men stranded on the bases. Friel led the hitting for Croydon. Palowez featured for Edgely with his long triple to right field in the fourth frame.

A return game is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at Edgely.

KILLER ESCAPES!

ALL too often the one who causes a smash-up rides away either stupidly unconscious of what he has done or coldbloodedly unconcerned about it. He commits some infraction of the law, brings on a crisis and then leaves the other fellows to get out of it as best they can.

Such people are a positive menace to all motorists, for they go on causing one accident after another. They never consider the other fellow—never look behind—never put out their hand—never give any warning of what they're about to do.

The State of Pennsylvania is catching up with these troublemakers and forcing them to pay the penalty for their selfish actions. Every effort is being made to remove this type of road hog from the highways.

Check up on yourself. Make sure that you are not doing anything to bring on a crash, or even to cause annoyance to other drivers. Let everyone else on the road know just what you intend to do.

WARNING!

All Drivers found guilty of motor vehicle accidents involving personal injury, must be re-examined to determine ability to drive.
